

Hundreds
of campfire
stories.

Thousands of history lessons.

Billions
of dollars for local economies.

These are some of the reasons why 90% of Republican and Democratic voters believe that at just 1/14th of 1 percent of the federal budget, national park funding should not be cut any further.* Our national parks generate $31 billion from tourism and recreation, alone—a fantastic return on our small investment. Cutting our parks costs American jobs. When is the last time 90% of Democrats and Republicans agreed on anything?

npca.org/billions

*Poll conducted jointly by North Star Opinion Research and Hart Research Associates